With positive election outcome and the Governments impetus on growth the economy has seen a marginal uptick. The capital market fund flow has improved due to a stable government and industry friendly measures announced. It is expected that private equity inflows will follow a similar trend over the next 18 to 24 months. As the overall economic environment has showed signs of revival there is a sense of great optimism going forward. This potential improvement in the operating environment is expected to provide a platform for a robust performance from the Company in the coming fiscal”
